

PROCESS DRAMA: CHRISTMAS

You are mother Zoe. You love Christmas and you want everything to be perfect, so you ask your husband and your children to help you to clean and decorate the house, and you want your sister to help you to cook Christmas dinner. You don't like singing. You hate when people say "no" and you don't want your old mother to work. You invite Simon to stay for the dinner and you don't mind if his friend joins you.	You are father Jack. You don't understand why your wife has to clean everything every year before Christmas and you don't want to put up the decorations because last year you fell from the ladder while doing it. And your brother invites you to watch a football match, so you can't stay at home tonight. 3 days ago you gave your daughter 30 euros. You never agree with grandma.
You are daughter Emily You love decorating the house but you hate cleaning, so you want your brother to help your mum with the cleaning. You also want to meet your friends and go shopping with them, but you need to ask your father to give you some money. You don't want your cousin (Jenny) to come for a dinner because you've had an argument. You love X-mas songs, especially when Simon's friend sings them.	You are brother Charlie. You have agreed to see your friend to play football, so you can't stay at home. You'd rather cook than clean or decorate the house. You don't like how your aunt (Melisa) cooks. You think that Jenny is very rude. You want your father to join you and your friend, but not your uncle, because he plays football terribly. You want to see Simon's friend because he's a famous singer.
You are aunt Melissa. You love cooking, even though everyone hates your dishes. You try to make your nephew and niece stay at home because it's Christmas! You are sure that Emily and your daughter are going to have fun together but you become very upset when you hear about an argument. You don't like when people criticise your food. You'd like Simon to stay for the Christmas dinner.	You are uncle Simon You love playing football and talking about it, especially with Charlie. You don't think it's important to decorate the house and persuade Zoe not to do it. You love singing carols. You love how Melissa cooks, but you can't stay for the Christmas dinner because you have promised to spend Christmas with your friend. You don't like when your relatives argue.
You are cousin Jenny You love your uncle Jack and aunt Zoe, but you don't like their children. Moreover, you've had an argument with Emily because she saw you with her boyfriend. You don't mind helping your mum and aunt, but you'd also like to make up with Emily. You don't want Simon to stay for the dinner because he will talk about football. You hate Simon's friend.	You are grandma. You also love Christmas and ready to help your daughter (Zoe). You love working even though you are very old. You think that Christmas is a family holiday and no one should argue, all the family should stay together. You don't want Simon's friend to join you. You always protect and help your grandchildren.
